AROUND AND ABOUT

--The Montgomery County Public Libraries have planned a series of film programs with the needs of children with hearing and language impairments in mind. The films utilize visual images instead of spoken dialogue or narration to carry the story. For information concerning the location and time of presentations call 589-8523.

--Four Gallaudet graduates, Mary Beth Miller, Dorothy Miles, Fanny Yeh and Arthur Tomlinson, are the first persons to receive a master's degree in theatre education for the deaf in the United States. They were granted their degrees by Connecticut College last month.

--Gallaudet Today has won its second award for excellence from Ed Press Association. The Association also presented an award in its "special publication" category to the College's 1972-73 Annual Report.

--A group of 24 students from the Marlton School for the Deaf in Los Angeles, visited Gallaudet on Monday. Accompanied by Carol Billone, '67 and several other of their teachers, the students raised $10,000 during the past year to finance their trip to Washington.

--"Everything But Hear" and "The Person Within," two films distributed by the Clarke School for the Deaf, will be shown on Friday, June 28, at 12:30 p.m. in the Carmichael Auditorium, History and Technology Building, Smithsonian Institution.
